Husband and Wife have a Marriage, where he leaves the house daily to work and makes $60,000 a year for the family, while she stays home and vacuums and cleans and cooks for him and does his laundry.

However, when the marriage ends in Divorce, he still has to keep giving her a fraction of the money... but she no longer has to cook or clean for him or provide any service. How do we change that ??

Or even better yet, if you are worth something as an individual, and are so obssesed over material belongings, marry a girl that has higher networth than you. The only thing you could be afraid that way is if she fucks a nigger, which is unlikely if you have big cock and a shotgun by the bed.

I just got out of an 18-year marriage. Slept on the furniture for the last 6 years. She got a $700k house and custody. I left with $200k of debt.

Never get married without a prenup. And never stay if it becomes a sentence. Take the loss and move on. There are women out there who will bleed you out emotionally until you can't take it. Then they take all your shit. Any chick from the Eastern Hemisphere is in the long game, beware gentleman. America is the land of opportunity because somehow men have transformed into something else. We were raised that way.

SO let's fix that. Don't tolerate shit. Make your relationships in life the best you can for you.

At least I got out of alimony.

See above.

Honestly it's fine to get married. Find a good girl, sign a prenup, and make sure you guys agree on some points before you wed. For example, do you believe she should have custody of future children, or should you? Though as long as you make more money and you're stable, the government will award custody to you. Also if you don't want the kids, child support and alimony does make sense.

>SO why are anons still getting married?
I've been trying to get divorced for the last three years.
Wife was ordered to move out of my house today.
I was so looking forward to moving in tomorrow on the first day of summer and going for a swim in my pool.
Turns out she filed a new restraining order yesterday. It's the second one this year. The other one didn't go through.
That trial is in three weeks. RO cases get bumped to the front.
She just doesn't want to leave my house and lose the life style I provided, but I'm divorcing her and she's gotta go.
She's complete trash and even took a swing at me on Monday in front of the kids. I dodged, but it's like what the fuck is wrong with her?
She hasn't let me have visitation with the kids in 6 months either.
This weekend is father's day and she's not letting me see the kids.
I have a contempt hearing against her for that but it's been moved from April to July to Sept. I don't expect to see the kids until then.
Sad. Many such cases.

Institute the Chris Rock Equal Standards of Living. So the logic of alimony is that your ex-wife has "gotten used to a certain standard of living" that cannot be replicated on her income alone. Well, you've gotten used to a certain standard of living that involves fucking your wife 2-3 times a week. So as long as she gets alimony, you should get state-mandated conjugal visits.

Subversive Kikes are 100% against goyim marriage, you dumb shit.
Married men are more successful, healthier, happier, and wealthier.
Their kids commit fewer crimes, are less dependent on welfare, and are 95% less likely to live under the poverty line.
Marriage is success. That's why the kikes hate it. That's why they subvert it, promoting easy divorce or selling you the lie that it's just a piece of paper.
You're either a kike or your dumbass fell for it.

It provides stability. Humans are built to mate for life. Our children take longer to raise than any other animal on the planet. Our language, biology, and psychology are all developed around it. If you're just "in a relationship" or "living together" then none of that stability or finality is there. There's no skin in the game, and that ends up being stressful. Family is everything, and marriage is the only family you get to choose.

Remember: they will stop sucking your dick soon after the honeymoon. Make sure you have them sign a prenup.

Only good sides I've had so far is bigger tax return filing as married and more stimulus check money. She has no control over finances so I got 100% of it. Bought a new gaming computer with VR and escape reality as much as possible until I kill myself from overeating.
